

On Thursday, February 25, Radio Sljemena's show "9.99" featured Iva Katić, a senior adviser in the Service for International Cooperation, EU and Legal Affairs, who answered the listeners' questions and explained why it is important to protect your personal data, how they can be misused and what citizens can do if misuse occurs.

In a conversation with the show's editor Ivana Radaljic Krušlin, Iva Katic pointed out that the awareness of personal data protection among some citizens is still not sufficiently developed and shared tips on how to protect their personal data.
