Media Competence Working Group updates leaflets for parents, teachers and primary school children Saarbrücken, January 28, 2020: On the occasion of today's European Data Protection Day, the Media Competence Working Group is publishing the updated version of its series of leaflets My Data! Children and young people today use mobile media as a matter of course and are - mostly with the Smartphone – always and everywhere online. They prefer to call up videos or pictures, send them, write messages or post articles and clips. In doing so, they leave traces and (unintentionally) reveal a lot of personal data. Data protection on the Internet is and will remain an important topic! With the three folders Meine Daten! The media competence working group in Saarland sensitizes elementary school children, parents and teachers to the critical and conscious handling of their own data and the data of others. They provide target group-oriented tips on how to handle personal data securely. They tell you what to look out for when publishing personal information on the Internet, give tips on basic rules that must be observed at all costs, and provide information about contact points and (teaching) materials that deal with the subject of data protection. The leaflets My Data ! are available for download free of charge on the Internet at www.medienkompetenz.saarland.de, at www.mkz.LMSaar.de or at www.datenschutz.saarland.de. The AG Media Competence is an association of Saarland players in the field of media competence. Since 2008, she has been exchanging views across the country on the latest developments in the media sector and educates parents, students, teachers and pedagogical specialists about the opportunities, possibilities and risks that digital media offer young people today.
