the conference of the independent data protection supervisory authorities of the federal and state governments

The conference of the independent data protection supervisory authorities of the federal and state governments (data protection conference) will meet on May 10th and 11th, 2023 in Rendsburg. This year, the chairperson of the conference is the State Commissioner for Data Protection Schleswig-Holstein, Dr. H. c. Marit Hansen. The participants of the conference will exchange views on topics such as employee data protection, scoring, automated data analysis by the police and intelligence services and radio-based cold water meters. Hansen is looking forward to exciting discussions among colleagues from the data protection supervisory authorities: "Data protection is always characterized by technical progress and current case law - that runs through our agenda. At the data protection conference, we agree, for example, on recommendations to the legislature and assistance for data processors." The agenda is published here:
