Start of the 2022 census – Dr. Juliane Hundert: »Compliance of data protection is controlled«

On May 15th, the 2022 census will start in Saxony

Population, building and housing census.

The State Statistical Office organizes the survey, in which around 15 Percent of the Saxon population as part of a household survey to disclose personal information about themselves. The legal

The basis is in particular that passed by the federal legislature

Census Act 2022, according to which respondents have an obligation to provide information.

The law also contains detailed regulations on data protection and for data processing.

The Saxon Data Protection Officer Dr. Juliane Hundert:

“In his landmark census judgment from the year 1983

the Federal Constitutional Court has the fundamental right to information committed to self-determination. The judges have the state set clear limits in population surveys. He has to go under create a legal basis as well as organizational and take procedural precautions to ensure that the data collected not fall into the wrong hands. In practice this means, for example, that statistical details of a person interviewed are strictly confidential are to be held. They may not be sent to administrative authorities or private individuals be issued. With my authority I will be at the 2022 census randomly check whether the data protection regulations be respected. After all, citizens have a right that the state always processes your data in a legally compliant manner.« In the census, for example, respondents have information about their housing situation, for education and gainful employment.
