Results from the review of

list of law enforcement agencies of treatments under the Criminal Data Act

Summary of the result

The Data Inspectorate has examined seven authorities that are required to keep one list of the categories of personal data processing that they responsible for according to the Criminal Data Act.

The result from the review is generally positive. At the same time it has there were some shortcomings in all the audited authorities. The shortcomings have led to that the Data Inspectorate has instructed or recommended the authorities to take measures.

Background to the review

According to ch. 3, law enforcement authorities shall Section 3 of the Criminal Data Ordinance

keep a list of the categories of personal data processing for which they are responsible under the Criminal Data Act.

The Data Inspectorate has examined that list of seven law enforcement officers authorities: the Police Authority, the Swedish Prison and Probation Service, the Coast Guard,

The Swedish Environmental Crime Agency, the Public Prosecutor's Office, the Swedish Tax Agency and the Swedish Customs.

A complete and well-designed list is important to it the internal work of the law enforcement agency to ensure that follows the rules of the Criminal Data Act.

A list of treatments needs to be reviewed on an ongoing basis as needed the conditions of a business change.

There is also an obligation to keep a register of treatment under Article 30 Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). This obligation has not been a part of the review.

Report on the result

The authorities included in the audit for a list according to the Criminal Data Regulation. For all audited authorities have

The Data Inspectorate has found that certain information that must appear in the list was either missing or indistinctly indicated.

When information was missing, the Data Inspectorate either instructed the authority to indicate in their list of treatments the missing information or recommended the authority to make an assessment of whether it is possible to enter the details. The recommendations are intended to indicate deadlines for how long the categories of personal data may be processed.

As information has been entered in an unclear manner, the Data Inspectorate has submitted the authority to clarify or specify the task. The information has either confused in the list of treatments or been for oprecisa.
