The year 2020 was also a busy one for the data protection supervisory authorities shaped by the COVID-19 pandemic. As part of my responsibility for Bavarian public bodies, in particular state authorities and municipalities, not only did numerous legislative projects have to be accompanied as well as to cope with many submissions and requests for advice; also the operation was safe regardless of the development of the incidences to deliver. Although not everything a priori and in every respect complete

In my activity report, data protection issues are in context of the COVID-19 pandemic into a focus article which grasps the spectrum of topics ranging from film recordings in the Landeshaus (No. 3.1) on legal issues relating to various data transfers

(No. 3.2, 3.3 and 3.5) to data protection-compliant reporting about infection numbers (No. 3.7).

The General Data Protection Regulation has now been in force for all for three years.

Of the contributions relating to administrative digitization,

I would like to highlight two in particular: The contribution "Law on the Digitization in the Free State of Bavaria" (No. 7.1) reports on my efforts requirements for the data protection-compliant design of a relevant legal common basis for action in this area; on the other hand, the Article "Guidelines for outsourcing municipal IT" (No. 7.2) Insight in the process of creating a book published at the beginning of the current year published document, which for the first time in Germany in detail standards for the support of municipalities by external service providers formulated in the field of administrative digitization.

In the area of personal data protection, there are innovations that for contractual employees in the Bavarian public service in train on the handling of their personnel files (No. 9.1),
